The Thousands of Letters which have been sent by American Immigrants to their friends in every part of Europe, have borne ample testimony to the rapid and successful passages made by those Ships, and to the superior Health, Comfort and Safety which their Passengers have hitherto enjoyed. Veto of the Emigrant Agency Bill.

Gov. BARSTOW, as our readers have learned, plucked up spirit enough to veto one of the seven hundred bills passed by our late Legislature.—The phenomenon excites considerable surprise and a variety of comment among the papers of the State. The Grant County Herald, for instance, evidently mistaking the provisions of the bill and the purport of the Veto, speaks as follows:

GOV. BARSTOW has vetoed the emigrant Agency Bill. A few such strokes will make us believe he is a better man than he was represented.

When the Herald comes to learn the precise object and effect of this "stroke," we suspect that it will make haste to take back its commendation.—The Potosi Republican, a democratic paper, published in the same county, thus talks of the bill and the Veto:

We cannot see, for our part, what induced Gov. BARSTOW to entail the useless expense of about $10,000 a year for this purpose. The Emigrant agency at New York is one of the grossest humbugs supported by our State, or rather by the tax-payers; and more than this, their representatives in council have voted for its abolishment. Yet our Governor has vetoed it, setting at naught the wishes of their constituents. But if this suits Governor and the 'fiddler to pay,' we doubt very much whether he would have acted as he now has.

GOV. BARSTOW'S "inducement" to veto this bill, was simply a desire to provide a place for a party leech. There are so many more office-seekers than offices, in this State, that the head of the Spoils party could'nt think of "retrenching" even one. It is still a moot point whether Senator MILLER, of Speaker HORN is to receive the office which the People wished and the Legislature voted to abolish, but which Gov. BARSTOW, by his veto, has kept alive.

Port Huron and Michigan Rail Road.

The Lapeer County Democrat, published on the line of this road, has the following information as to the progress of the work:

We have received such information as to justify the belief that the contractors will sub-let the whole line of this road at an early day, and probably before the first of June, preparations will be in such a state of forwardness, as to place the building of the road immediately beyond a peradventure. We understand that the eastern division of the road will be built mainly upon the old survey; excepting in Shiawassee County, where a change in the route will be made so as to straighten the line, passing two or three miles north of Corunna, and through Owasso.

This road terminates at Grand Haven (as does the Oakland & Ottawa road from Detroit) on this Lake and connects at Port Huron, with the Grand Trunk Railway through Canada. Its construction, we believe, is a settled thing, and the benefits to accrue therefrom to our city and State, cannot well be exaggerated. We rather think that with two such roads terminating at Grand Haven, there will be business and inducement enough to keep up that "Steam Ferry across Lake Michigan," which gives some of our Chicago contemporaries the horrors every time it is mentioned.

THE RIGHT DOCTRINE.—The Sheboygan Lake Journal, which has vigorously opposed the Grab game attempted to be played by the Land Pirates in this State, and for so doing has been taxed by the Green Bay Advocate with selfishness in advocating the interest of the Lake Shore to the injury of other portions of the State, thus replies to this charge:

We are not opposed to the building of the Valley Railroad, nor to any other Railroad project in the State. But we are opposed to Congress fostering one Railroad project at the expense of many others; we are opposed to granting public lands to railroad companies at all, and more especially to such a corrupt and dishonest set of political wire-pullers as the Valley Road Company and its attendants in this State are known to be. This is what we are opposing. We are far from desiring the sacrifice of any interior interests to enhance those of the Lake Shore. Those interests should not be antagonistical—they should operate in unison, fostering and sustaining each other. This is our doctrine.

And it is sound doctrine; it is democratic doctrine; it is the doctrine of equal rights, honest legislation and fair play. Private Companies might just as well ask, and Congress with equal justice and propriety grant, large sums of money out of the Treasury, as millions of acres of the Public Lands, to aid their private enterprizes.—And as to this particular Valley Road Company, the whole opposition they have encountered is due to their own dishonest practices and corrupt management, whereby the credit of our State and of all Rail-Road enterprizes within its limits, has suffered seriously at home and abroad.

We trust the Sentinel does not mean to imitate MORGAN and his News and make all kind of charges without knowing or caring for the truth.—We hope Gov. BARSTOW will go to Washington and make a full statement of the true situation of the land grant matter.—Janesville Standard.

When the Sentinel makes a charge "without knowing or caring for the truth," we shall be glad to have the Standard point it out. In this particular instance, we mentioned a rumor that Gov. BARSTOW was going to Washington to "lobby for Land Grants," and the Standard, while it scolds us for making the statement, itself indirectly confirms it. The Wisconsin, on the other hand, boldly denied that this was Gov. BARSTOW mission to Washington, but as boldly refused to tell what "secret service" does call him thither.—Which is right, the Standard or the Wisconsin?

TERRIBLE ENGINES OF WAR.—English papers state that Admiral Napier's fleet in the Baltic is provided with two or three new projectiles of a most destructive character. One of them is a long Congreve rocket, which thrusts into the side of a vessel its iron head, containing two pounds of fulminating powder of mercury. When the fire attains this reservoir, it explodes, blowing a hole in the vessel ten or twelve feet in diameter, which it is impossible for them to close up as they do the round holes made by cannon balls.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette writing from Paris, says:

"The submarine boats are so perfected at this moment, that they can reach and attach a bunner to an enemy's ship without running the least danger. Experiments are also being made with an asphyxiating ball, which does not kill, but which paralyzes an entire crew for several hours, or until they are made prisoners."

LARGE SALE OF PROPERTY—HANDSOME PROFIT.—We learn that the negotiations were concluded yesterday for the purchase by BYRON KILBOURN, Esq.—we presume for the Hartford Iron Co.—of 40 acres of land at Iron Ridge, Dodge Co., for $25,000. The seller was Mr. C. J. WOOLSON, of Cleveland, Ohio, who entered the land at government price (1,25 per acre) some 8 or 10 years ago. That may be considered a fair profit. The iron ore is said to be so plenty upon the land as to be loaded into wagons as easily as common earth.

NEBRASKA MEETING.—The Cincinnati Gazette says that the meeting in that city in favor of the Nebraska bill, heralded with a great flourish of trumpets, was a complete failure, "not more than 700 persons being present," and half of those opposed to the bill. The Gazette states that the only thing imposing about the meeting, was the glowing account of it given next day by the Enquirer.

The Secret Correspondence.

We give place to-day to copious extracts from the very remarkable secret correspondence which has recently been published by order of the British Parliament, being sundry despatches passing between Sir G. E. Seymour, English Minister at St. Petersburgh, and Lord John Russell, the Premier. The conversations detailed by the Minister, as held with the Czar, make a profound sensation in Europe, as well they may. The coolness with which the Autocrat disposes of France and Russia, proposes to hand over Egypt and Candia to England, and developes his own long-cherished policy, will be noticed with interest. This thing that is called diplomacy has some curious features. Here are the Emperor of all the Russias and the accredited envoy of Great Britain, sitting together in the closet of the former, in close confidential conversation, each trying to ascertain the other's views without developing too clearly his own, yet the Emperor all the while, in his show of frankness, telling more than he would like published. They talk about "honor," "the honor of gentlemen," &c.,&c.—yet, doubtless, busy clerks were taking down the conversation, and here we have it. Let our readers, each for himself, sit down on some comfortable seat in that closet, and enjoy the conversation of great men—the consultation of the dear friends of the "sick man," Turkey, about the division of his property among themselves, to the exclusion of other interested parties. We are obliged to leave over one of the letters till to-morrow:

SIR G. H. SEYMOUR TO LORD JOHN RUSSELL.

St. PETERSBURG, Jan. 11, 1853.

Sir, I observed, your Majesty has been good enough to charge me with general assurances as to the identity of views between the two cabinets, which, be assured, have given me the greatest pleasure, and will be received with equal satisfaction in England; but I should be particularly glad that your majesty should add, in a few words, which may tend to calm the anxiety with regard to the affairs of Turkey, which passing events are so calculated to excite on the part of her Majesty's government; perhaps you will be pleased to charge me with some additional assurances of this kind. The Emperor's words and manner, although still very kind, showed that his majesty had no intention of speaking to me of the demonstration which he is about to make in the South. He said, however, at first with a little hesitation, but, as he proceeded, in an open and unhesitating manner. The affairs of Turkey are in a very disorganized condition; the country itself seems to be falling to pieces (menace ruine;) the fall will be a great misfortune, and it is very important that England and Russia should come to a perfectly good understanding upon these affairs; and that neither should take any decisive step of which the other is not apprized.

I observed, in a few words, that I rejoiced to hear that his Imperial Majesty held this language; that this was certainly the view I took of the manner in which the Turkish questions are to be treated. He said, as if proceeding with his remark, "Stay, we have on our hands a sick man —a very sick man; it will be, I tell you frankly, a great misfortune if, one of these days, he should slip away from us, especially before all necessary arrangements are made. But, however this is not the time to speak to you on that matter." It was clear that the Emperor did not intend to prolong the conversation. I therefore said: "Your Majesty is so gracious that you will allow me to make one further observation. Your Majesty says, the man is sick; it is very true; but your Majesty will design to excuse me if I remark, that it is the part of the generous and strong man to treat with gentleness the sick and feeble man." The Emperor then took leave of me in a manner which conveyed the impression of my having at least not given offence, and again expressed his intention of sending for me at some future day. Your lordship will pardon me if I remark that, after reflecting attentively upon my conversation with the Emperor, it appears to me that this, and any overture of the kind which may be made, tends to establish a dilemma by which it is very desirable that her Majesty's government should not allow themselves to be fettered. The dilemma seems to be this; If her Majesty's government do not come to an understanding with Russia as to what is to happen in the event of the sudden downfall of Turkey, they will have the less reason for complaining, if results displeasing to England should be prepared. If, on the contrary, her Majesty's government should enter into the consideration of such eventualities, they make themselves, in some degree, consenting parties to a catastrophe which they have so much interest in warding off as long as possible. The sum is probably this: That England has to desire a close concert with Russia, with the view to preventing the downfall of Turkey—while Russia would be well pleased that the concert should apply to the events by which the downfall is to be followed. Yours, &c.,

(Signed) G. H. SEYMOUR.

[Received February 6.]

[Secret and confidential.]

ST. PETERSBURGH, January 22, 1854.

My Lord: On the 14th instant, in consequence of a summons which I received from a Chancellor, I waited upon the Emperor, and had the honor of holding with his Imperial Majesty the very interesting conversation of which it will be my duty to offer your lordship an account, which, if imperfect, will, at all events, not be incorrect. I found his Majesty alone; he received me with great kindness, saying, that I had appeared desirous to speak to him on Eastern affairs—that, on his side, there was no indisposition to do so, but that he must begin at a remote period. You know, his Majesty said, the dreams and plans in which the Empress Catharine was in the habit of indulging, these were handed down to our time; but while I inherited immense territorial possessions, I did not inherit those visions—those intentions, if you like to call them so. On the contrary, my country is so vast, so happily circumstanced in every way, that it would be unreasonable in me to desire more territory or more power than I possess; on the contrary, I am the first to tell you that our great, perhaps our only danger, is that which would arise from an extension given to empire already too large. Close to us lies Turkey; in our present condition, nothing better for our interest can be desired. The times have gone by when we had anything to fear from the fanatical spirit or the military ardor of the Turks; and yet the country is strong enough—or has hitherto been strong enough—to preserve its independence, and to insure respectful treatment from other countries.

Well, in that empire there are several millions of Christians, whose interests I am called upon to watch over, (surveiller) while the right of doing so is secured to me by treaty. I may truly say, that I make a moderate and sparing use of my right; and I will freely confess, that it is one which is attended with obligations occasionally very inconvenient. But I cannot recede from the discharge of a distinct duty. Our religion, as established in this country, came to us from the East; and there are feelings, as well as obligations, which must never be lost sight of. Now Turkey, in the condition which I have described, has, by degrees, fallen into such a state of decrepitude, that, as I told you the other night, eager as we all are for the prolonged existence of the man, (and that I am as desirous as you can be for the continuence of his life, I beg you to believe,) he may suddenly die on our hands, (nous reste sur le bras;) we cannot resuscitate what is dead. If the Turkish Empire falls, it fails to rise no more. And I put it to you, therefore, whether it is not better to be provided beforehand for a contingency, than to incur the chaos, confusion, and the certainty of a European war, all of which must attend the catastrophe if it should occur unexpectedly, and before any ulterior system has been sketched; this is the point to which I am desirous that you should call the attention of the government.

Sir, I replied, your Majesty is so frank with me, that I am sure you will permit me to speak with the same spirit. I would then, observe, that deplorable as is the condition of Turkey, it is a country which has been plunged in difficulties supposed by many to be insurmountable. With regard to contingent arrangements, her Majesty's government, as your Majesty is well aware, objects, as a general rule, to taking engagements upon possible eventualities, and would, perhaps, be particularly disinclined to doing so in this instance. If I may be allowed to say so, a great distinction (repugnance,) might be expected in England to disposing by anticipation (d' escompter,) of an old friend and ally. The rule is a good one, the Emperor replied, good at all times, especially in times of uncertainty and danger, like the present; still it is of the greatest importance that we should understand each other, and not allow events to take us by surprise. Now, I desire to speak to you as a friend and gentleman; if England and I arrive at an understanding of this matter, as regards the rest, it matters little to me.

Frankly, then, I tell you plainly, that if England thinks of establishing herself one of these days at Constantinople, I will not allow it. I do not attribute this intention to you, but if it is better, on these occasion, to speak plainly. For my part, I am equally disposed to take the engagement not to establish myself there, as proprietor that is to say, for as occupier I do not say; it might happen, that circumstances, if no previous provision were made, if everything should be left to chance, might place me in the position of occupying Constantinople." I thanked his Majesty for the frankness of his declaration, and for the desire which he had expressed of acting cordially and openly with her Majesty's government, observing, at the same time, that such an understanding appeared the best security against the sudden danger to which his Majesty had alluded. I added that, although unprepared to give a decided opinion upon questions of such magnitude and delicacy, it appeared to me possible that some such arrangement might be made between her Majesty's government and his Majesty as might guard, if not for, at least against, certain contingencies.

* * * * * * *

To render my meaning more clear, I said further: I can only repeat, sir, that in my opinion, her Majesty's government will be indisposed to make certain arrangements connected with the downfall of Turkey, but it is possible that they may be ready to pledge themselves against certain arrangements which might in that event be attempted. His Imperial Majesty then alluded to a conversation which he had held, the last time he was in England, with the Duke of Wellington, and to the motives which had compelled him to open himself to the Grace; then, as now, his Majesty was, he said, eager to provide against events which, in the absence of any concert, might compel him to act in a manner opposed to the views entertained by her Majesty's government. The conversation passed to the events of the day, when the Emperor briefly recapitulated his claims upon the Holy Places, claims recognised by the firman of last February, and confirmed by a sanction to which his Majesty said he attached much more importance—the word of a sovereign. The execution of promises so made, and so ratified, the Emperor said he must insist upon, but was willing to believe that this subject would be attained by negotiation, the last advices from Constantinople being rather more satisfactory. I expressed my belief that negotiation, followed, as I supposed it had been, by the threats of military measures, would be found sufficient to secure a compliance with the just demands of Russia.

With regard to a French expedition to the Sultan's dominions, his majesty intimated that such a step would bring affairs to an immediate crisis; that a sense of honor would compel him to send his forces into Turkey without delay or hesitation; that if the result of such an advance should prove to be the overthrow of the Great Turk (le Grand Turk) he should regret the event, but should feel that he had acted as he was compelled to do. To the above report I have only, I think, to add, that the Emperor desired to leave it to my discretion to communicate or not to his minister the particulars of our conversation, and that before I left the room, his Imperial Majesty said,—"You will report what has passed between us to the Queen's government, and you will say that I shall be ready to receive any communication which it may be their wish to make me on the subject." A noble triumph would be obtained by the civilization of the nineteenth century, if the void left by the extinction of Mohammedan rule in Europe, could be filled up without an interruption of the general peace, in consequence of the precautions adopted by the two principal governments the most interested in the destinies of Turkey.

I have, &c, (Signed) G. H. SEYMOUR.

LORD J. RUSSELL TO SIR G. H. SEYMOUR.

No. 4.

[Secret and confidential.]

FOREIGN OFFICE, Feb. 9, 1853.

Sir: I have received and laid before the Queen, your secret and confidential despatch of the 22nd of January.

Her Majesty, upon this as upon former occasions, is happy to acknowledge the moderation, the frankness and the friendly disposition of his Imperial Majesty.

Her Majesty has directed me to reply in the same spirit of temperate, candid, and amicable discussion.

The question raised by his Imperial Majesty is a very serious one. It is, supposing the contingency of the dissolution of the Turkish Empire to be probable, or even imminent, "whether it is not better to be provided beforehand for a contingency, than to incur the chaos, confusion, and the certainty of a European war, all of which must attend the catastrophe if it should occur unexpectedly and before some ulterior system has been sketched; this is the point," said his Imperial Majesty, "to which I am desirous that you shall call the attention of your government."

In considering this grave question, the reflection which occurs to her Majesty's government is, that no actual crisis has occurred which renders necessary a solution of this vast European problem.

* * * * * * *

In these circumstances it would hardly be consistent with the friendly feelings towards the Sultan which animate the Emperor of Russia, no less than the Queen of Great Britain, to dispose beforehand of the province under his dominion.—Besides this consideration, however, it must be observed, that an agreement made in such a case tends very surely to hasten the contingency for which it is intended to provide. Austria and France could not, in fairness, be kept in ignorance of the transaction, nor would such concealment be consistent with the end of preventing an European war. Indeed, such concealment cannot be intended by his Imperial Majesty. It is to be inferred that, as soon as Great Britain and Russia have agreed on the course to be pursued, and have determined to enforce it, they should communicate their intentions to the great powers of Europe.

An agreement thus made, and thus communicated, would not be very long a secret; and while it would alarm and alienate the Sultan, the knowledge of its existence would stimulate all his enemies to increased violence and more obstinate conflict. They would fight with the conviction that they must ultimate triumph, while the Sultan's generals and troops would feel that no immediate success could save their cause from final overthrow. Thus would be produced and strengthened that anarchy which is now feared, and the foresight of the friends of the patient would prove the cause of his death.

Her Majesty's government need scarcely enlarge on the dangers attendant on the execution of any similar convention. The example of the succession war is enough to show how little such agreements are respected when a pressing temptation urges the violation. The position of the Emperor of Russia as depositary, but not proprietor, of Constantinople, would be exposed to numberless hazards, both from the long cherished ambition of his own nation and the jealousies of Europe. The ultimate proprietor, who-ever he might be, would hardly be satisfied with the inert, supine attitude of the heirs of Mohammed II. A great influence on the affairs of Europe seems naturally to belong to the sovereign of Constantinople: holding the gates of the Mediterranean and the Black Sea.

That influence might be used in favor of Russia; it might be used to control and curb her power.

Thus European conflict would arise from the very means taken to prevent it; for neither England nor France, nor probably Austria, would be content to see Constantinople permanently in the hands of Russia.

On the part of Great Britain, her Majesty's government at once declare that they renounce all intention or wish to hold Constatinople.—His Imperial Majesty may be quite secure upon this head. They are likewise ready to give an assurance, that they will enter into no agreement to provide for the contingency of the fall of Turkey without previous communication with the Emperor of Russia.

Upon the whole, then her Majesty's government are persuaded that no course of policy can be adopted more wise, more disinterested, more beneficial to Europe, than that which his Imperial Majesty has so long followed, and which will render his name more illustrious than that of the most fortunate sovereigns who have sought immortality by unprovoked conquest and ephemeral glory.

With a view to the success of this policy, it is desirable that the utmost forbearance should be manifested towards Turkey; that any demands which the great powers of Europe may have to make, should be made matter of friendly negotiation rather than of peremptory demand; that military and naval demonstrations to coerce the Sultan should as much as possible be avoided; that differences with respect to matters affecting Turkey, within the competence of the Sublime Porte, should be decided after mutual concert between the great powers, and not forced upon the weakness of the Turkish government.

To these cautions her Majesty's government wish to add, that in their view it is essential that the Soltan should be advised to treat his Christian subjects in conformity with the principles of equity and religious freedom which prevail generally among the enlightened nations of Europe. The more the Turkish government adopts the rules of impartial law and equal administration, the less will the Emperor of Russia find it necessary to apply that exceptional protection which his Imperial Majesty has found so burdensome and inconvenient, though no doubt prescribed by duty and sanctioned by treaty.

You may read this dispatch to Count Nesselrode, and, if it is desired, you may yourself place a copy of it in the hands of the Emperor. In that case you will accompany its presentation with those assurances of friendship and confidence on the part of her Majesty the Queen, which the conduct of his Imperial Majesty was so sure to inspire.

I am, &c. J. RUSSELL.

SIR G. H. SEYMOUR TO LORD JOHN RUSSEL.

[Received March 6.]

[Secret and confidential.—Extract.]

ST. PETERSBURG, February 21, 1853

The emperor came up to me last night, at a party of the Grand Duchess Hereditary's, and in the most gracious manner took me apart, saying that he desired to speak to me. After expressing in flattering terms the confidence which he has in me, and his readiness to speak to me without reserve upon matters of the greatest moment, as, His Majesty observed, he had proved in a late conversation, he said: "And it is well it is so; for what I most desire is, that there should be the greatest intimacy between the two governments; it never was so necessary as at present. Well," the emperor continues, "so you have got your answer, and you are to bring it to me to-morrow?"

"I am to have the answer sir," I answered; "but your Majesty is aware that the nature of the reply is very exactly what I had led you to expect."

"So I was sorry to hear; but I think your Government does not well understand my object. I am not so eager about what shall be done when the sick man dies, as I am to determine with England what shall not be done upon the event taking place.

"But, Sir," I replied, "allow me to observe that we have no reason to think that the sick man (to use your Majesty's expression) is dying. We are as much interested as we believe your Majesty to be in his continuing to live; while, for myself, I will venture to remark that experience shows me that countries do not die in such a hurry. Turkey will remain for many a year, unless some unforeseen crisis should occur. It is precisely Sir, for the avoidance of all circumstances likely to produce such a crisis that her Majesty's government reckons upon your generous assistance."

"Then," rejoined the Emperor, "I will tell you that, if your Government has been led to believe that Turkey retains any elements of existence, your government must have received incorrect information. I repeat to you that the sick man is dying; and we can never allow such an event to take us by surprise. We must come to some understanding; and this, we should do, I am convinced, if I could hold but ten minutes' conversation with your ministers—with Lord Aberdeen, for instance, who knows me so well, who has full confidence in me, as I have in him. And remember I do not ask for a treaty or protocol; a general understanding is all I require—that, between gentlemen is sufficient; and in this case I am certain that the confidence would be as great on the side of the Queen's ministers as on mine. So no more for the present; you will come to me to-morrow, and you will remember that as often as you think your conversing with me will promote a good understanding upon any point, you will send word that you wish to see me."

I thanked his Majesty very cordially, adding that I could assure him that Her Majesty's government, I was convinced, considered his word, once given, as good as a bond.

It is hardly necessary that I should observe to your lordship that this short conversation, briefly but correctly reported, offers matter for most anxious reflection.

It can hardly be otherwise but that the sovereign, who insists with such pertinacity upon the impending fall of a neighboring state, must have settled in his own mind that the hour, if not of its dissolution, at all events for its dissolution, must be at hand.

Then, as now, I reflected that this assumption would hardly be ventured upon unless some, perhaps general, but at all events intimate understanding, existed between Russia and Austria.

Supposing my suspicion to be well founded, the Emperor's object is to engage her Majesty's government, in conjunction with his own cadinet and that of Vienna, in some scheme for the ultimate partition of Turkey, and for the exclusion of France from the arrangement.

DISEASES OF THE EAR.—We received last evening the advertisement of Dr. HARTLEY, the widely known aurist of Philidelphia,—but too late for insertion in to-day's paper. Dr. H. is now in this city, at the American. Col. Crocker, of the St. Louis Intelligencer, says of the doctor:

"DEAFNESS.—Dr. HARTLEY, the eminent Philadelphia aurist, has had his hands full during his short stay in our city. The large number of cases he has treated indicate quite remarkably the little understood prevalence of diseases in that very delicate organ, the human ear. His office has been thronged daily, during the hours of business, from within a few days after his arrival.

The correct principles upon which his treatment is based have been fully vindicated by the restoration of many of his patients and decided improvement of the remained. There is no empiricism in his practice. He does nothing whatever until, by the help of instruments of novel and peculiar construction, he has ascertained the precise seat and nature of the disorder. He is thus always enabled to tell a patient with certainty whether his cure will require a longer or a shorter time, or whether his case be incurable. We speak not as an observer, but as a patient of Dr. H.'s—having derived, in a few days, more benefit from his treatment of an affection of many year's standing, than we had previously expected to experience in a life time.

Dr. Hartley left St. Louis yesterday afternoon on the New England. During his stay here he made many warm friends by the kindness and suavity of his social deportment; and left some warm remembrances, too, among the afflicted ones who were fortunate enough to have tested his skill."

WATERTOWN ELECTION.—The following officers were elected in Watertown on the 4th. There seems to have been no party strife:

Mayor.—Theodore Prentiss.
Clerk.—Henry Muhlberger.
Marshal.—Ernest Off.
Treasurer.—John Becker.
Assessor.—Walter Pease, Jr.
School Sup't.—James Cody.
Supervisors.—M. B. Williams, Patrick Rogan, Philip Piper.
Aldermen.—John Luver, H. Bertraw, Peter Rogan, Patrick Rogan, Jacob Staub, Chas. Beckman.

Judge Larrabee received 127 votes in the 5th and 6th (Dodge Co.) wards,—all there were cast—for Judge.

CHICAGO TO CINCINNATI IN 16 HOURS!—Travelers can now leave Chicago at 6 o'clock every morning by the Michigan Central Rail Road, connect at Michigan City with the New Albany and Salem Road through Indiana, and reach Cincinnati at 10 o'clock the same night. As soon as the night line of boats is put on the route between this city and Chicago, passengers can take tea in Milwaukee one evening and sup in Cincinnati the next.

☞The U. S. Senate has confirmed the nomination of S. V. R. ADLEMAN, Esq., as Marsha for Wisconsin Mr. ADLEMAN has thus far discharged the duties of his office acceptably to the Government and the public.

CONNECTICUT ELECTION—THE NEBRASKA BILL.—As a further illustration of the decisive manner in which Connecticut has spoken on the Nebraska question, we copy the following from the New Haven Journal:

In all parts of the State where the Nebraska question was presented as an issue, there was hardly a trace of Democracy left. The New Haven County Democratic Convention endorsed the Nebraska bill, and Parmelee, Whig, elected Sheriff, by 2000 majority, when last year, Ingersol, Democratic M. C. had 800. In this Senatorial District the democratic Convention endorsed the Nebraska bill, Barlow, Whig, had 870 majority; a gain of 1770 over last year. In the 5th District the Democratic Convention endorsed the bill, and the Whig candidate, Carter, gains several hundred on last year's vote.

In the 10th District the same thing was done, and the Whig candidate gains 500 in spite of a strong local opposition from Bridgeport. In Fairfax County the democratic Convention endorsed Nebraska, and the Whig Sheriff, Jones, is probably elected, in spite of the Maine Law and Free Soil opposition, where last year the democrats had 400 majority. These are the only cases where the issue has been directly presented, and it has been met by the overwhelming defeat, of the Pierce and Douglas party.

COWARDLY ASSAULT.—The Milwaukee papers of the 10th inst., notice a cowardly assault, by S. Park Coon, late Attorney General, upon A. A. Noonan, Esq., Postmaster of that city. Finding Mr. N. unarmed, and anticipating nothing of the kind, Coon's valor rose to that degree that he came upon him from behind, seized him by the collar, drew a cane, or something of the kind, and attempted to use it. No reason of any kind is assigned for the assault. It probably grew out of political spite. The extraordinary claim Mr. Coon recently got allowed by the legislature, for collecting canal mortgages—than which, in our opinion, a more corrupt one could scarcely be conceived—and another claim for thirty-five days attendance as a witness upon the investigating committee of last year, in the case of the charges against Levi Hubbell, when, by the journal, it appears that but 25 days elasped from the time the committee was empowered to call witnesses until the entire testimony was reported to the House—could scarcely fail to excite comment among honest and worthy men throughout the state. Probably Mr. N. had been guilty of speaking the truth with regard to these things, and nothing could have been more severe. If Mr. Coon undertakes to cudgel all who talk freely about the dishonesty of these things, we apprehend he will have his hands full.—Madison Journal.

THE CHICAGO EVANGELIST.—We notice that Rev. H. Curtis and R. W. Patterson resign the editorial charge of this paper. Their connection with it was merely designed to be temporary, and now, that it is established, they commit it to other hands.

Rev. Joseph G. Wilson, formerly of Lafayette, Indiana, and more recently of Milwaukee, assumes the editorial chair. He has the reputation of being a fine scholar, a terse, able and ready writer, and we have no doubt the Evangelist will prosper under his editorial supervision.

By the way, we observe that the paper has been enlarged to seven columns, and is in all respects much improved. We wish it abundant success.—Chicago Press.

[Reported for the Sentinel.]

Convention at Young's Hall.

The meeting which had been for some time called by notices in the papers, to give an expression of public sentiment relative to the late exciting scenes in this city, in the Glover rescue, and matters of the kind, was called to order at Young's Hall yesterday morning by Dr. C. H. ORTON, of Milwaukee, by nominating Dr. E. B. WOLCOTT as Chairman pro tem. A. H. BIELFELD was nominated as Secretary pro tem.

The following persons were appointed a committee to nominate permanent officers, and prepare business for the meeting:

G. J. Fowler, Dr. E. Wunderly, H. Shew, Dr. E. Munk, Dr. C. H. Orton, Milwaukee; J. C. Paine, W. W. Vaughn, F. De Barard, Edwin Burgess, Rev. Mr. Jordon, Racine; J. A. Smith, Martin Mitchell, Fond du Lac; Aaron Putnam, Vernon; H. H. Hecox, Prairie du Sac; W. E. Roberts, Mt. Pleasant; W. D. Bacon, Waukesha; Rev. Gurdon Loomis, Raymond; Richard Packham, Palmyra; Geo. Law, Muskego; Allen Woodruff, Oconomowoc.

The meeting then adjourned to 1 1-2 P. M.—Shortly after that hour, the Committee reported the following list of officers for the Convention:

President.—Dr. E. B. WOLCOTT, of Milwaukee.

Vice Presidents.—Rev. GURDON LOOMIS, Raymond; MARTIN MITCHELL, Fond du Lac; Dr. E. WUNDERLY, Milwaukee; IRA O. PAINE, Racine; W. D. HOLBROOK, Waukesha; H. H. HECOX, Prairie du Sac; Dr. F. MUNK, Milwaukee; AARON PUTNAM, Vernon; Rev. E. D. UNDERWOOD, Watertown.

Secretaries.—A. HENRY BIELFELD, Milwaukee; J. A. SMITH, Fond du Lac, BYRON PAINE, Milwaukee.

Dr. Wunderley reported the names of a Finance Committee, stating that the expenses incurred for the Hall, &c., would be about thirty dollars. The committee reported the following declarations;

Whereas, There has lately been an attempt by the officers of the United States to deprive an inhabitant of this State of his liberty, without a trial by jury, and in obedience to a writ of habeas corpus, issued in his favor; and, whereas a number of civil and criminal prosecutions have been commenced against citizens of this State by said officers and others, acting in concert with them, for alleged violations of the late Fugitive Act, committed in attempting to secure, in his behalf, the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus; and, whereas these proceedings furnish just grounds of alarm, and a proper occasion for the people to take measures for the protection of their constitutional rights, and to express their opinions concerning the respective powers and duties of the State and National Government. Therefore, we, the members of this Convention, do put forth the following declaration of our sentiments, and pledge ourselves to each other and the country, to uphold them by all proper and constitutional means;

That the Federal Government is one of limited powers, derived solely from the Constitution, and the grants of power made therein ought to be strictly construed by all the departments and agents of the government; and that it is inexpedient and dangerous to exercise doubtful constitutional powers.

That we do explicitly and peremptorily declare that we view the powers of the Federal Government as resulting from the compact to which the States are parties, as limited by the plain sense and intention of the instrument constituting that compact; as no further valid than they are authorized by the grants enumerated in that compact; and that in case of a deliberate, palpable, and dangerous exercise of other powers, not granted by the said compact, the States who are the parties thereto have the right, and are in duty bound to interpose for arresting the progress of the evil, and for maintaining, within their respective limits and authorities, rights and liberties appertaining to them.

That the several States composing the United States of America, are not united on the principle of unlimited submission to their general government; but that by compact, under the style and title of a constitution for the United States, and of amendments thereto, they constitute a general government for special purposes, delegated to that government certain definite powers, reserving each State to itself, the residuary mass of right to its own self-government; and that whenever the general government assumes undelegated powers, its acts are unauthoritative, void and of no force; that to this compact each State acceded as a State, and is an integral party; that this government, created by this compact, was not made the exclusive or final judge of the extent of the powers delegated to itself, since that would have made its discretion and not the constitution, the measure of its powers; but that, as in all other cases of compact among parties having no common judge, each party has an equal right to judge for itself, as well of infractions as of the mode and measure of redress.

That dangerous powers, not delegated, may not only be usurped and executed by the other departments of the governments, but that the judicial department also may exercise or sanction dangerous powers beyond the grant of the constitution; and, consequently, that the ultimate right of the parties to the constitution, to judge whether the compact has been dangerously violated, must extend to violations by one delegated authority, as well as by another, by the judiciary as well as by the executive or the legislature, and however true it may be that the judicial department is in all questions submitted to it by the forms of the Constitution, to decide in the last resort; this resort must necessarily be deemed the last, in relation to the authorities of the other departments of the Government—not in relation to the rights of the parties to the Constitutional compact, from which the judicial, as well as the other departments, hold their delegated trusts.—On any other hypothesis, the delegation of judicial power would annul the authority delegating it, and the concurrence of this department with the others in usurped powers, might subvert forever, and beyond the possible reach of any rightful remedy, the very Constitution which all were instituted to preserve.

That whenever a question arises concerning the constitutionality of a particular power, the first question is whether the power be expressed in the constitution. If it be, the question is decided. If it be not expressed, the next inquiry must be whether it is properly an incident to an express power and necessary to its execution. If it be, it may be exercised by Congress. If it be not, Congress cannot exercise it.

That the Constitution of the United States contains no express grant of power to Congress to legislate on the subject of reclaiming fugitives from labor, neither is such legislation necessary or proper to carry into execution any express grant, and therefore the act of Congress of 1850, commonly called the Fugitive Slave Law, is unconstitutional and void, and all power to legislate upon that subject rightfully belongs to the states.

That the said Act is not only a glaring usurpation of power by the Federal Government, but is odious and unjust in its provisions, dangerous to the liberties of the people, and destructive to the sovreignty of the States; and that it is the duty of the State Government by all its departments to protect by every legal means, the liberties of its citizens from all encroachments by virtue of said act.

That all the courts and judges who have sustained the power of Congress to legislate for the recapture of fugitives from labor, have done so, not from anything in the constitution, but by going out of that instrument and making an argument of convenience, and that not a convenience for preserving liberty, but for perpetuating human bondage. And that for the judiciary thus to infer powers in Congress which the constitution never granted, is dangerous to the harmony and preservation of the Union, and such a mode of interpretation ought to be at once and forever abandoned.

That the writ of habeas corpus, by which the cause of restraint upon personal liberty may be enquired into, is one of the strongest bulwarks of personal rights, and that any infraction upon it, whether from the artful devices of judicial, or the more flagrant usurpations of ministerial officers, will only be tolerated by a people who do not understand their rights, or are afraid to defend them.

Resolved, That we recommend to the people of this State who approve of the foregoing propositions, to meet in their respective localities and adopt the following

Declaration of Sentiments.

1. All persons in the State of Wisconsin, irrespective of birth, condition, or color are presumed to be free.

2. No person can be deprived of liberty but by due process of law, in open court by the judgment of his peers.

3. The right of trial by jury should be sacredly maintained in all cases involving personal liberty.

4. All persons are entitled to the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, on a proper application by any State or United States Judge.

5. The powers of Congress are limited to the express grants in the Constitution of the United States, and to such legislation as is necessary and proper to carry those grants into execution.

6. The Fugitive Slave Act of 1850 is unconstitutional and void because:

1st. Congress has no power to legislate on the subject.

2d. This act annuls the writ of habeas corpus.

3d. It also abrogates the right of trial by jury.

7. The refusal of Judge Miller to allow the writ of habeas corpus in favor of Glover to be obeyed by the officers under his control, and his abuse of that writ in discharging Garland from arrest under process from a State court for assault and battery, on the ground that Garland, by virtue of an affidavit that any person was his slave, had a right, with or without process, to seize such person, and use any amount of evidence necessary to subdue him, and make him his slave,—furnish just cause of alarm to the people of this State and deserve their severest condemnation.

8. The encroachments upon the sovereignty of the State, and the rights and liberties of the people by this Fugitive Act and the execution of it by Federal Officers in this State should be opposed by all peaceful, legal and constitutional means.

The cause of those who are prosecuted for alleged violations of the Fugitive Act, is the cause of liberty against despotism, and

A HANDSOME AFFAIR.—Our young friend FRED. D. CLARK, of the Sentinel office, arrived at "years of discretion" on Tuesday, and celebrated the event by a dinner at BELDEN'S at which some fifteen or twenty of his friends were present. The table was probably the most elegant ever furnished at THE HOUSE. The bills of fare were printed in gold on satin and the name of a guest printed on each. The entertainment was prolonged to the "wee sma' hours," and wit, sentiment and general hilarity prevailed. The "proceedings" closed with a bumper for FRED, and it seemed to be the unanimous opinion that he ought to live long and die happy.—Morning News.

DR. HOOFLAND'S CELEBRATED GERMAN

BITTERS,

Prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson,

AT THE GERMAN MEDICINE STORE,

120 Arch-st., Philadelphia.

Their power over the above diseases is not excelled, if equalled, by any other preparation in the United States, as the cures attest, in many cases after skillful physicians had failed.

The Bitters are worthy the attention of invalids. Possessing great virtues in the rectification of diseases of the Liver and lower glands, exerting the most searching powers in weakness and affections of the digestive organs, they are without a fe, certain and pleasant.

READ AND BE CONVINCED.

(From the Boston Bee.)

The Editor said, Dec. 2d: "Dr. Hoofland's celebrated German Bitters, for the cure of Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Debility or Nervous Debility, is deservedly one of the most popular medicines of the day. These Bitters have been used by thousands, and a friend at our elbow says he has himself received an effectual and permanent cure of Liver Complaint from the use of this remedy. We are convinced that, in the use of these Bitters, the patient constantly gains strength and vigor, a fact worthy of great consideration. They are pleasant to taste and smell, and can be used by persons with the most delicate stomachs with safety, under any circumstances. We are speaking from experience, and to the afflicted we advise them use."

SCOTT'S WEEKLY.

One of the best literary papers published, said, August 2: "DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS, manufactured by Dr Jackson, are now recommended by some of the most prominent members of the faculty, as an article of much efficacy in cases of female weakness. As such it is the duty, we would advise all mothers to obtain a bottle, and thus save themselves much sickness. Ferrors of debilitated constitution will find those Bitters advantageous to health, as we know from experience the salutary effect they have upon weaken systems."

MORE EVIDENCE.

The Hon. C. D. Hibbins, Mayor of the City of Camden N. J., says:

"HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.—We have seen many strengthening notices of this medicine, and the source from which the same induced us to make inquiry respecting its merits. From inquiry we were persuaded to use it, and must say we found it a good and valuable preparation. Diseases of the liver are oftentimes complicated with dandruff and itching, particularly when in perspiration; but it only required three or four applications to remove all dandruff and itching; and although my hair had fallen off until I was somewhat bald, I now have a fine head of hair, both in color, softness and lustre, as I had when but a youth, and quite as abundant. It is proper for me to state that I commenced its use in August last, and used more than one bottle. I have no doubt therefore but what the change is a permanent one; I can therefore recommend it as the most wonderful discovery of the age in which we live.

Extract of a letter from R. Thorn, Sheriff of La Salle county, Illinois:

OTTAWA, Ill., August 21, 1853.

Prof O. J. Wood—Dear Sir: Yours of June 25th, accompanied by a bottle of your Hair Restorative, was received. I very soon thereafter commenced using it, and it has entirely restored my hair to its natural and full color.—There is considerable inquiry for the article, &c.

Very respectfully yours. R. THORN.

HIGHLY IPMORT ANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

To the Afflicted Everywhere,

DR. A. L. ADAMS' LIVER BALSAM COMES GREETING!

DR. A. L. ADAMS' NEW CURE FOR DISEASE is awakening the inquiry in the minds of all who read it. How is it that Americans have been so long and so fatally ignorant in darkness and ignorance on the subject of diseases.

DR. A. A. ADAMS' LIVER BALSAM.

The great Panacea of Diseases is offered to the afflicted of the States and Territories for the entire cure of Liver Complaints in all stages, Bilious Fever, Ague and Fever, Chronic Lung Affections, Severe Affections, Coughs, Consumption, Asthma, Jaundice, Bowel Complaints, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Rheumatism, Piles, Scrofula, Salt rheum, Dyspepsia, General Debility, Nervousness, Costiveness, Indigestion, Female Complaints, &c.

Dr. A. A. Adams' Liver Balsam now sustains the high est reputation of any remedy before the public and has proved to the most skeptical, beyond a shadow of doubt that it is the only reliable medicine ever discovered (being purely vegetable) for the permanent cure of the above diease. The most skeptical have become its most sanguine votaries, and pronounce that Liver Balsam to be the only available harbinger of health to the afflicted everywhere.

Testimonials come up from every track it has made, swollen with expressions of gratitude for the relief received by its use. And, in submitting this, the Liver Balsam is recommended to those suffering under the iron grasp of the monster disease, and at once procure one bottle of Dr. A. A. Adams' Liver Balsam.

The readers attention is called to the perusal of the Medical Circular, which can be obtained of every agent throughout the United States, giving a clear epitome of the causes and cure of diseases; also, of certificates of those who have tested its unparalleled sacrecancy over the diseases to which we are all subject.
